Bredesen Announces Recovery Act Funds for Murfreesboro Transit
$9.7 Million in Recovery Act Funds Awarded to Eight Small Urban Transit Providers

NASHVILLE – Governor Phil Bredesen announced today that Murfreesboro Transit will receive $2,185,769 in funds from the American Recovery and Reinvestment Act for transit services within the city of Murfreesboro. Murfreesboro Transit operates six fixed routes throughout the city.

“Many Tennesseans, particularly those with limited mobility, already rely on public transportation for their daily needs and many others would like to see expanded transit options,” said Bredesen. “The Recovery Act funds announced today will help our small urban transit providers in Tennessee improve service and replace aging fleets with safer, more reliable vehicles.”

A total of $9.7 million in Recovery Act funds is being provided to eight small urban transit agencies in Tennessee.

"As the economy recovers from this recession, improving public transit in Murfreesboro will not only make it easier for people to get around, but also make the city more desirable for businesses to set up shop," said Congressman Bart Gordon. "I remain committed to securing additional federal funds to expand public transportation in Rutherford County and throughout Middle Tennessee."

Murfreesboro Transit plans to use the Recovery Act funds to purchase bus shelters and passenger amenities, 15 vans for the regional vanpool, transportation system technology, and two 40-foot hybrid coaches to expand express bus service on the Southeast Corridor.

“Many of the vans and buses in the state’s transit fleets have accumulated hundreds of thousands of miles over the years and have outlasted their useful life,” said TDOT Commissioner Gerald Nicely. “Replacing these vehicles will allow transit agencies to provide safer, more dependable service to their customers and will generate manufacturing work for the companies providing the vehicles.”

Federal Recovery Act transit funds are administered by TDOT’s Division of Multimodal Transportation Resources. Tennessee received a total of $72 million in Recovery Act transit funds. Of those funds, $42.2 million was directed by the federal government to the state’s four large urban areas, Memphis, Nashville, Chattanooga and Knoxville.
